Sierra Club fighting DuPont landfill plan

Proposed site would include wetlands property

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

DuPont DeLisle is planning to add another waste disposal area to its property at the plant site, which will impact a section of wetlands. The new site will be used for the disposal of coke ore, said plant manager Pat Nichols on Friday.

Not everyone is happy with the plant's proposal to fill in the wetlands to create an additional waste area at the plant. The Sierra Club has issued a statement against the proposal and initiated a petition drive in protest of the application.

The public has until Jan. 13 to comment on the application and request a public hearing on the matter.

Like all manufacturing processes, the plant at DeLisle has waste materials that it must dispose of, said Nichols, and the site

Loose toddler leads to suspects in Hwy. 90 furniture store heist

THE SEA COAST ECHO

Two Bay St., Louis residents were arrested in connection with the burglary of a Bay St. Louis furniture store last week after sheriff's deputies received a report about a toddler on the loose at an apartment complex.

Hancock County Criminal Justice Facility records show that the child's parents Tiffany L. Sofra, 23, and John A. Haley, Jr., 21, are charged with burglary and possession of drugs in addition to child neglect.

Sheriff's investigators found the child's parents asleep and their yard littered with merchandise allegedly stolen a few hours earlier from the furniture store.

Officers said the couple broke into the furniture store on Saturday night, lugged several thousand dollars worth

Two killed in separate Hancock holiday car wrecks

Hancock County started the new year off with two fatalities involving single vehicles January 1, according to Hancock County Sheriff's officers.

The first accident occurred on Lower Bay Road at approximately 6 a.m., according to investigating officer Lt. Danny Gilkerson.

Gilkerson said, "Craig Wilson, 37, of Pass Christian, a former Bay St. Louis resident, was traveling on Lower Bay Road about one-half mile West of Lower Bay Road, when he lost control of his vehicle, struck a culvert and his vehicle flipped several times ejecting him."

"He was pronounced dead at the scene by Norma Stiglet, Hancock County Medical Examiner. Indications are that an animal may have been involved in the accident," Gilkerson added.

Investigator John Luther and Sgt. Push Phillips also responded to the scene.

The second accident occurred at approximately 4 p.m. Thursday, on the Leetown Road near the Bud Lee Road, when a white pickup left the road, went through a fence and then struck a large pecan tree, according to Lt. Gilkerson.

"The vehicle was driven by Peter Michel, 26, of Pearl River County, who was first taken to Crosby

Free Boat and Water Safety Classes scheduled for January-March

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Department of Marine Resources' (DMR) Boat and Water Safety class schedule for January through March 2004 is now available. Classes are free and open to all ages. Pre-registration is required.

In order to operate a motorboat or personal watercraft in Mississippi, those born after June 30, 1980, are required to successfully complete an approved boating safety course and to have a certificate of satisfactory completion in their possession while in operation of the motorboat.

"The DMR Boat and Water Safety Bureau conducted 71 Boating Safety classes this year, which resulted in 871 people being certified. Hopefully these classes will help reduce the number of boating accidents in the coming years," said Lt. Frank Wescovich, who oversees the DMR's Boat and Water Safety Program.

The DMR Marine Patrol-sponsored courses have been designed to effectively introduce topics such as boat registration, navigation rules, trailering, first aid response and weather watch into a comprehensive one- or two-session class. The classes are taught locally with many convenient locations. To pre-register for a class or to bring a class into your school call the DMR Boat and Water Safety Bureau at (228) 435-1332 or (228) 432-2820.

In Mississippi, it is against the law for anyone 12 years old and under to operate a motorboat or personal watercraft unless they possess a certificate and are accompanied by a parent, guardian or other person who is at least 21 years of age.

Anyone riding or operating a personal watercraft in Mississippi waters must wear a U.S. Coast Guard approved type 1, 2, or 3 PFD.

Since the inception of the DMR's Boat and Water Safety program in March 2000, the marine patrol officers in the DMR's Boat and Water Safety Bureau have taught 271 certification courses and certified a total of 4,221 students.

The DMR's Boat and Water Safety Bureau comprises four Marine Patrol officers with more than 80 years of combined experience to relate to the public on these programs. More than 5,213 students have attended the DMR's Boat and Water Safety presentation programs. These programs and certification courses are conducted by the DMR free of charge, in the three coastal counties, year-round for the public and in the school systems.

In the DMR's Boat and Water Safety presentation program, students learn the history of boat and water safety, the duties of the DMR's Marine Patrol, what to expect in the certification course and why there is a need for it.

Topics covered include registration, safety equipment, negligent operation, who has the right of way, boating accidents, no wake zones, weather and navigational aids.

The Boat and Water Safety Bureau has also spread the message of boating safety to about 35,000 people through its outreach programs and exhibits at various events. Marine Patrol officers also conduct boat inspections and coordinate with the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks on boating accident reports and marine safety incident reports.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes. Motorized scooters not street legal

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Parents who succumbed to their children's wishes for a motorized scooter are coming to recognize that they are illegal to use everywhere except the driveway.

Motorized scooters, vehicles that resemble old-fashioned scooters but are powered by small motors, zoomed off store shelves across the country.

While Mississippi law does not directly address such scooters, Department of Public Safety officials say they are not "street legal" because they don't fit the definition of a motorized vehicle, which are the only ones allowed on roads, streets and highways.

Law enforcement agencies across the state have been urging parents to keep the scooters off the street. Some accidents have been reported.

Warren Strain, spokesman for the Mississippi Department of Public Safety, said Wednesday that the Highway Patrol has been asked for guidance from local law enforcement agencies about the scooters. He said local police and sheriff's departments, as well as the Highway Patrol, will enforce the law.

Around the country, many cities have adopted rules limiting where the scooters can be ridden. And whether they are allowed on sidewalks, in parks or in other public areas is being debated and handled differently from one community to the next.

For example, in Minnesota, some towns prohibit them from not only streets, but also sidewalks. In Oregon, scooter riders must be at least 16 years old.

In Louisiana, state police said the scooters are not legal for use on public streets. To be legal, a scooter would have to be registered and pass an annual safety inspection, they said.

In Mississippi, Strain said scooters don't meet the definition of a legal vehicle. Strain said safety equipment left off of the kiddie scooters includes turn signals, horns and rear view mirrors.

"They're not for use on public roadways," he said. "They are dangerous, because a young child, or anyone for that matter, could lose control and fall in front of a car very easily. They are not familiar with the operation of a motorized vehicle."

Strain said drivers need to pay closer attention to people on the scooters.

The kiddie scooters, barely more than a skateboard with a seat and a motor, are smaller, have smaller engines than even the popular Vespa cycles, but obviously are more powerful than bicycles. They have an average speed of 12 mph to 15 mph. They sell from $99 to $1,200.

In Moss Point, city officials are discussing an ordinance to regulate scooters.

In Cleveland, Police Chief Drew Warren said his department has received numerous complaints from drivers about children on scooters who are darting in and out of traffic.

"These scooters are designed as recreational vehicles for areas away from regular traffic," Warren said. "These scooters should be treated the same as a 4-wheeler or go-cart."

Warren said it was ironic that about two to three weeks after Christmas over the years, the complaints have been about go-carts, but this year, scooters have taken their place as the "status toy."

Warren said scooter drivers should hope an officer doesn't see them riding on a public road.

"There will be fines and penalties for this activity, which is left up to the municipal court judge," he said. "It is a misdemeanor, which can carry a fine as high as $250. It depends on the situation."

"With these complaints we are receiving about kids riding around recklessly and dodging in and out of cars, someone is going to get hurt," he said. "We are going to be on the look out and keep the streets safe for everyone."

Used Cars Sold to Public, Some $49 Monday, January 5th, 2004

Current market conditions create a remarkable buying opportunity, Monday Only!

Article by Bob Rose
Pleayune, Ms As part of a proposal to deplete their used car inventory, local automotive dealership, Hopkins Auto World located at 241 Frontage Rd, Pleayune MS behind Super Wal-Mart plans to sell down over $3,000,000.00 in quality used cars this January 5th, 2004. Monday ONLY.

Some vehicles will be sold for huge dealer discounts off the NADA Retail Book Value on January 5th 2004, Monday only. Some cars will be sold for $49. "Why price these vehicles so low?" According to Raymond Fields, General Mgr, "The used car market is flooded with excess inventory due to the 0% financing on new vehicles."

The Weakened Economy Means Savings

"New car customers are trading vehicles at faster intervals, creating a surplus of quality used cars," Raymond continued. The bottom line is that used cars are at critically high inventory levels. Due to these conditions, we have no choice but to relinquish this inventory immediately."

For this event, Hopkins Auto World has agreed to offer these vehicles to the public at astonishing savings before some are shipped to auction. "The community has shown us great support and we're thankful. We would rather offer these vehicles to our customers at a greatly reduced price than sell them at auction. Even if we sell some cars for only $49!"

All types of vehicles will be available for this event, including cars, trucks, vans and sport utility vehicles from trade-ins, repos, lease returns, and program cars.

Authorized Inventory Reduction

"Our inventory must be reduced immediately so customers can expect to buy at drastically reduced prices," Raymond stated.

Registration starts at 8:30 am
Some cars that would sell for thousands will be sold for $49

Some cars that would sell for thousands more will be sold for $1,995

All used inventory will be cut drastically!!
Monday ONLY

Starting at 10:00 am sharp, until CLOSE, $49* vehicles will be sold throughout the day on a first come, first-served basis. Only customers who are officially registered at the registration table are eligible for these vehicles. Please bring this newspaper clipping.

Registration for the $49* Price Cutter Sale will begin at 8:30 am. At that time, all vehicles will be opened so that the customers can inspect the vehicles. The dealers selling price is posted on the windshield of each vehicle. When the Price Cutter Sale officially begins at 10:00am, "The Price Cutter Manager" will cut the posted retail price on the windshield from $6,000.00 to $10,000.00 off on each vehicle. Some will be cut 50% from the dealer's selling price! Registered customers will then have the first opportunity to purchase that vehicle at the new reduced price.

Only one markdown will be taken. Some vehicles will be marked to $49*.

No auction license is required to purchase these vehicles. This Price Cutter Sale is available to the public. Auto dealers and wholesalers must register to participate.

"We've simplified the process," said Raymond. "Select the vehicle you are interested in, and when the Price Cutter comes and cuts the price, the car is yours at the reduced price! Some at 50% off the dealer's selling price!"

Credit Requirements Reduced for this Event

In addition, Hopkins Autoworld has over $8,000,000 in low interest rate money and special financing available for this one-day only event. "We can get you pre-qualified before the sale, regardless of your past credit situation," Raymond said. Our creditors say LET US FINANCE YOUR FUTURE, NOT YOUR PAST!

"If you've been waiting for a great deal on a used vehicle, the time is now! This $49* Price Cutter Sale will be the perfect opportunity for a quality vehicle at incredible savings while we drastically deplete our inventory."

The Price Cutter Sale event will be held at Hopkins Auto World located at 241 Frontage Rd, Pleayune, MS located behind Super Wal-Mart. VEHICLES WILL BE SOLD FOR $49.00. For more info, call 800-826-6562, and ask for Raymond Fields.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

Couch potato time

Over the holidays I was thinking about the person who came up with idea of a college bowl football game. By patenting the idea of the bowl game, he could have been a trillionaire.

There was a time when I can recall there being the Sugar, Rose, Cotton and Orange Bowls. There may have been others, but we never did hear about them.

Going way back I do remember the high school Shrimp Bowl in Biloxi which was a highlight along the coast.

During the past week and through today, so many college bowl football games have been scheduled on TV, one could really become a couch potato.

I know for myself, that I have watched far too much TV during these holidays.

Just think, we still have the professional football playoffs which are underway too.

It almost seems like students go to college to go to football games, or become football stars instead of being educated.

On the other hand, I realize the television appearances of a team help the universities and colleges financially.

Tuesday, January 6, is really a big day for Hancock County.

A big step will be taken with the opening of the Boys & Girls Club of the Gulf Coast's Hancock County unit at Second Street Elementary School.

As I have previously mentioned over the years - many, many years - there had been talk about forming a Boys & Girls Club in Hancock County, and it was only talk.

It is a reality now, with a start-up including 100 youngsters ages 5 through 18 for the homework program 2:30 to 6 p.m. weekdays.

Then during summer, there will be 200 to 220 youngsters participating from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. during weekdays.

A lot of necessary grants have been received for the startup for the program. Organizers plan to spread to other schools and involve many more students.

Many people need to be thanked for their efforts in the formation of the Boys & Girls Club's new unit on the coast.

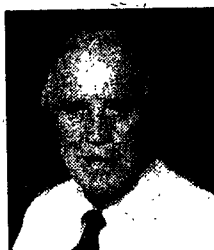

There are really too many to mention, but I just have to name a few, and they are Chuck Benvenuti, local CPA; Dr. Kim Stasny, Bay Waveland Superintendent of Education; Lora Mederos, director of the Human Resources Agency; and of course the Boys and Girls Club of the Gulf Coast; United Way of South Mississippi other organizations and persons need to really be congratulated.

You will be hearing a lot about the Hancock Unit of the Boys & Girls Club in weeks to come.

Good news for campaign finance reform

JACKSON—Mississippi in 2000 couldn't stop the nation's most powerful business lobby from running roughshod over the state campaign finance disclosure law. But now it may have gotten help from a surprise source: the U.S. Supreme Court.

Namely, the Supreme Court's recent monumental 5-4 decision upholding the McCain-Feingold Campaign Finance law, the first major overhaul of restrictions on political campaign spending enacted in 30 years.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

While McCain-Feingold applies to election of federal office-holders rather than state candidates, outcome of the case was keenly watched by state election authorities in Mississippi in hopes of strengthening the state's hand in enforcing its own 1996 Campaign Finance law.

Chiefly curbing the phenomenal flow of "soft money" into national political parties, the massive 300-page plus court decision contains one other major premise. It rejects the argument that free speech under the First Amendment gives interest groups license to raise and spend campaign money without regulation.

Free speech was what the U.S. Chamber of Commerce used to beat down this state's legal move three years ago seeking to make the giant Washington-based lobby to disclose the source of $1 million it spent to help elect four state Supreme Court judges.

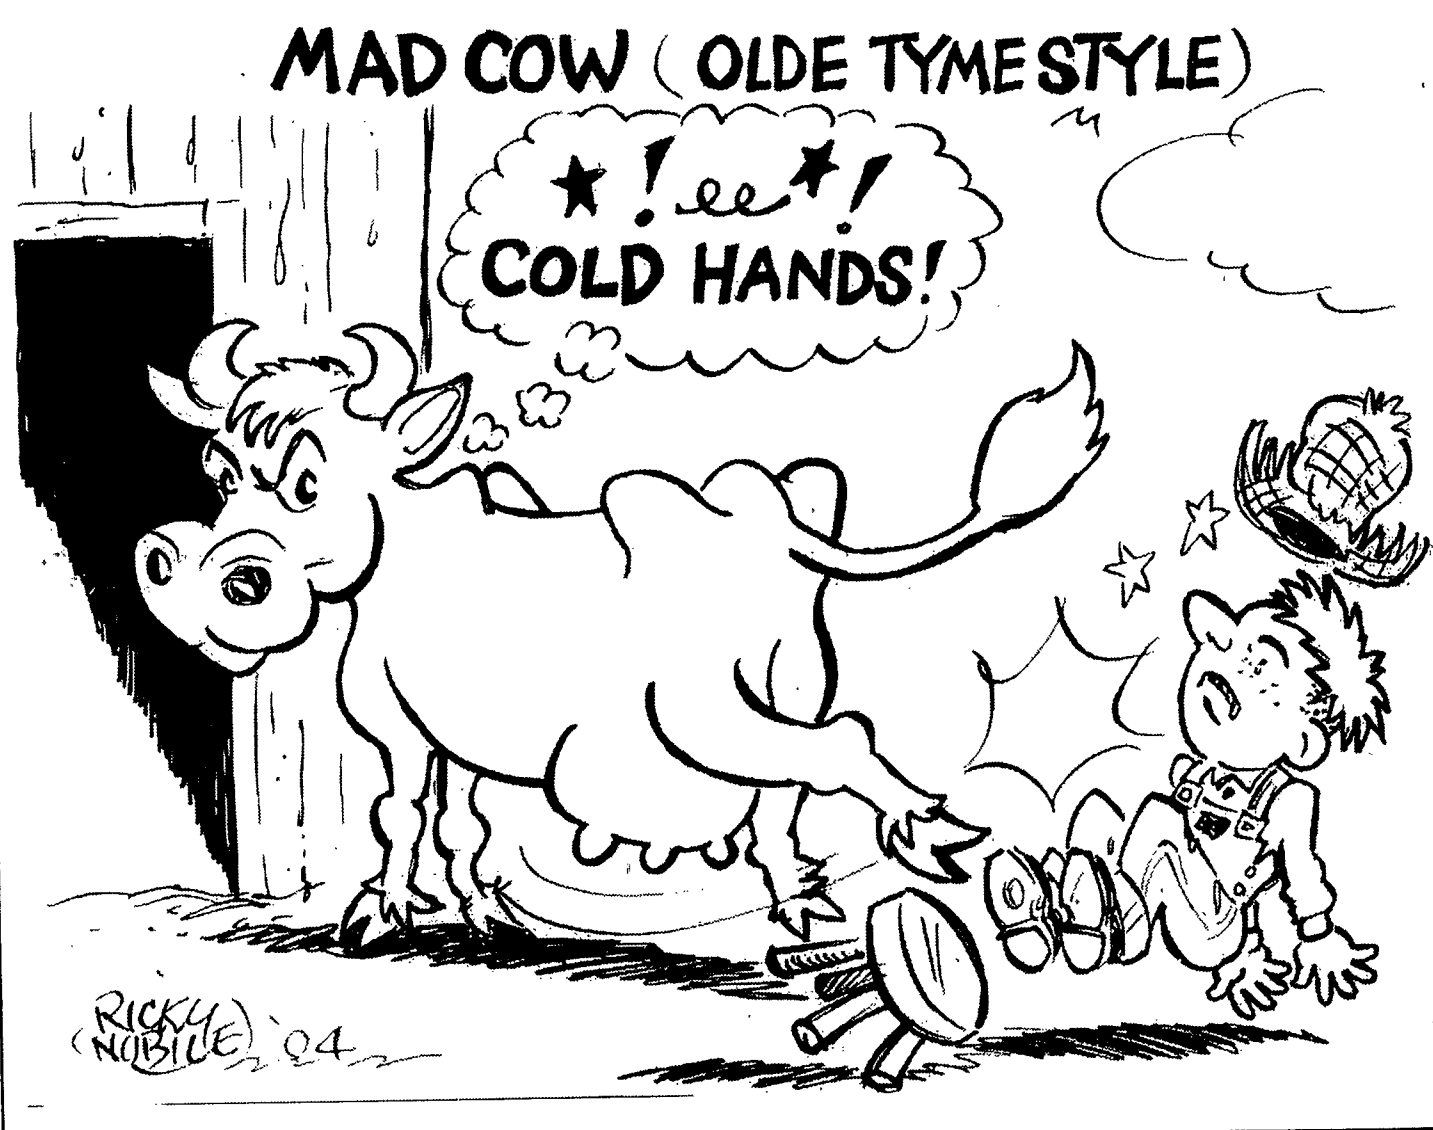

Secretary of State Eric Clark and Atty. Gen. Mike Moore challenged the Chamber to come clean on where the funds came from and how they were spent to launch an unprecedented TV advertising blitz and mailings a month before the November, 2000 state judicial elections.

The Chamber claimed its incursion into Mississippi was merely to educate voters and that its TV spots were "issue ads" that did not expressly advocate voting for any particular candidate. Thus, the Chamber contended, the ads were protected by the First Amendment and immune to the state's campaign reporting law.

Jackson-based U.S. District Judge Henry Wingate, however, held that the Chamber ads were actually "thinly veiled exhortations" to vote for certain candidates and were not about issues. He ruled against the

Letters to the Editor

A special thank you

To the people of Hancock County:

The red ink started the same time the war began. One months drop in contributions wasn't that alarming...but after four months of watching the red ink spread, something had to be done. And what we did was to turn to our most effective ally, The Sea Coast Echo, to spread the word that Hope Haven needed some help.

Our situation was covered by other media, Channel 13 and the Sun Herald, and we had some wonderful response from their coverage but, as always, it was the readers of The Echo that leapt to our aide.

Leading the charge was Diamondhead Community Church who sponsored a "match donation" followed quickly by Bayou Talla Church who hosted a summer fair. Levert Interest in the Pass joined in to help and then our post office box...that had been so empty for so long I was wondering if I had forgotten to pay the rent...started filling up again with the faithful...those individual citizens who care about children.

By July, we had pulled back into the black again...but with no surplus. Choice Supermarket checks, based on receipts turned in, dramatically increased and an additional contribution from the owner, Mr. Hamilton, of $1,000 warmed our heart. We made it through August and September with a little more coming in than what we spent and into October and November with our contributions continuing to increase a little each month. Small fundraisers helped but it was individual organizations, and people who really made the difference.

By the end of November, the red ink had been completely wiped out...and it appeared that we would end the year three to four thousand to the good...if December's contributions were at least $30,000. December is always our best month. December is the time when we receive toy contributions that have to last us all year. The contributions started to add up...by the 15th of the month they had reached $30,000 and we let out a sigh of relief...we were going to make it! Then something truly wonderful happened. Usually by the 15th of December we have received 95% of the contributions for the month...and people turn their attentions to their own circle as the "magic day" approaches. But not this year...this year the contributions kept on coming. This year to citizens of Hancock County and the surrounding area poured their hearts out to the abused children we serve. There is no way I can list the individual donations but every single one was

special

The figures are not "official" yet but it appears that we have received over $50,000 in donations for the month of December which makes Christmas 2003 the best Christmas and best December we have ever had! We will be good stewards of the funds entrusted to us and the monies will be used to provide even better care to the children who enter our shelter.

Our heartfelt thanks to the Echo and other media who supported us and may God bless all of you who gave this year.

Chamber and supported the state's effort to require the Chamber to comply with state disclosure law.

But a battery of Chamber lawyers went to the 5th Circuit Court and won a reversal of the Wingate order. The Supreme Court later allowed the appeals ruling to stand. However, this was before the court ruled on McCain-Feingold.

In light of the new Supreme Court decision, some legal watchdog authorities such as the Brennan Center at New York University say that appeals courts around the country will now have to revisit previous rulings knocking down state campaign disclosure laws.

Not unnoticed down here in Mississippi was that the U.S. Chamber was a leading plaintiff seeking to strike down the McCain-Feingold law in the Supreme Court.

Also of note is that Associate Justice Antonin Scalia, one of the dissenters to the ruling, was the judge the Chamber went to in order to initially block the Wingate order. In his dissent, Scalia fulminated that the majority of the Supreme Court rejected the argument that unlimited corporate and advocacy groups, campaign expenditures were free speech.

Still a sore subject with Secretary of State Clark is the U.S. Chamber's masking of its $1 million TV blitz in the 2000 judicial races under the sham of being "issue ads."

Clark said his staff is still analyzing the lengthy U.S. Supreme Court decision, but he said, "it's my hope it will give us a handle on these so-called 'issue ads,' which in reality are attack ads."

A keen student of government (he holds a PhD in American history) the scholarly Clark is obviously outraged that the U.S. Chamber, at least up until now, has been able to use this device to circumvent the state's law and refuse to make public names of contributors for its political campaign spending in Mississippi.

"These attack ads disguised as 'issue ads,' are highly offensive to me because they are destructive of the fundamental principles of our government," Clark declared.

"I'm hoping this decision (McCain-Feingold) will give us more ground to stand on to require disclosure of campaign spending by such big non-profit interest organizations as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce," he added.

Help to unmask issue advertising could be on the way in a significant provision of the McCain-Feingold law upheld by the Supreme Court.

It establishes a new category of "electioneering communications" that can be paid for only with registered (Ehard, money. Advertising falls into this category if it refers in any way to a specific candidate and is broadcast within 30 days of a primary or 60 days of a general election.

Perhaps this is why the U.S. Chamber, which used unregulated (Esoft money, for its 2000 Mississippi ads, strongly fought McCain-Feingold before the Supreme Court.

While the Chamber ads in the state's 2000 judicial races did not say "vote for" specific candidates, they downgraded by name opponent's records.

Since 2000 the U.S. Chamber has not been as visible in Mississippi as it was then in bankrolling TV spots. But its tentacles have appeared through front groups, as late as the 2003 governor's race to help Haley Barbour.

You recall the "leaking bucket" TV spots implying Gov. Ronnie Musgrove was a free spender? They were paid for by a front named The Taxpayer Alliance, largely funded by the Chamber.

Outgoing Atty. Gen. Moore said it would be up to his successor, Jim Hood, to deal with what Mississippi can do to strengthen its campaign finance law in light of the Supreme Court decision.

But he said one area the state should address is to fix a specific time frame before a primary or general election in which campaign advertising is subject to state law.

LEARN to lose weight in HMC 12-week series

Hancock Medical Center will repeat its 12-week series on weight management beginning Tuesday, January 13.

"LEARN" is an acronym for Lifestyle, Exercise, Attitude, Relationships and Nutrition. Each letter represents a component of the weight loss challenge, said registered dietitian Dawn Vosbein.

"This program is tailored to each individual's problem area," she said. "One person may eat very little during the day, but uncontrollably at night. Another may snack throughout the day and not even realize it."

Each class member will be asked to establish eating and activity habits by keeping a log during the initial phase of the seminar. Vosbein will tabulate caloric intake and assess activity level based on the information provided.

"We want to set individual goals and develop a plan for each participant to reach his or her goal. An important part of this series focuses on changing behavior to sustain weight loss."

Other components of the classes include recipe modification, how to incorporate exercise into a daily routine and the psychological aspects of maintaining a weight loss program.

The three-month program is offered from noon until 1 p.m. on the Hancock Medical Center campus. The cost is $75 and includes a 300-page workbook and various handouts. An initial medical screening for each participant will be conducted at the beginning of the series.

For additional information, call Vosbein at (228) 467-8730.

Dunklin's hard work pays off with big career marks

JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

Aaron Dunklin, the son of Louis and Lisa Dunklin of Bay St. Louis, was recently named first-team All-Big South Conference as a wide receiver from Charleston-Southern University in South Carolina. Dunklin set four school records and tied another during his time at the Division I-AA school. His time on the east coast only covered two seasons; however, he did play four years of college football. Dunklin starred for the Pearl River Community College Wildcats for two seasons.

During his time as a collegiate football player, Dunklin learned how to adapt quickly to new circumstances and make the best of the situation. He endured four different head coaches in as many seasons on the college gridiron.

He reflected on his season and his career, "My season started off slow because we have some very talented athletes on this team. However, as the season progressed I caught more passes. The team finished 1-11 on the season which was a huge disappointment because we had such high hopes. The defense played well this season but we just couldn't seem to put it together on offense this past year."

That didn't seem to slow Dunklin down as he set three single-season records. He set the mark for season receptions with 80 catches. The previous mark was 59. His receiving yardage mark was 1,063 yards which set a school record. Dunklin also set a school best in all-purpose yards in 2003 with 1,248 yards.

He also set a career mark with 125 catches which broke the previous mark of 105 and tied the career mark of 12 touchdowns this season in his final game.

Dunklin continued, "I think my career in football has worked out well. I played my junior year at SSC and we advanced to the state playoffs for only the second time in history. However, I really didn't want to play my senior year after dropping a pass in the endzone in the playoffs. But, as I thought more about it, I felt that I did not want people to remember my last game as one where I dropped the ball. So, I played my senior year at St. Stanislaus and we finished 8-3. We had some tremendous talent on that team. I took a scholarship to PRCC where we did not throw the ball too much my freshman year."

He continued, "However, my sophomore year, we threw the ball a great deal. I had to share time with other wide receivers and was injured a good bit."

Following his second year at PRCC, Dunklin had the opportunity to attend other schools on academic scholarships but decided to continue playing football after several discussions with his father. Aaron decided to take the scholarship to Charleston-Southern University in South Carolina. Once there, he played for his third head coach in as many seasons. However, he persevered and eventually earned All-Big South honors after his junior campaign.

Dunklin added, "I made all-conference following the 2002 season and wasn't even considered for pre-season recognition. So, from an individual standpoint that was kind of upsetting. Despite our struggles as a team, I was fortunate to have a decent season and receive some post-season recognition. The individual honors are very nice but I would trade them all for better team finishes. I have thoroughly enjoyed my career on all levels - high school, junior college, and senior college - except for the losses. No athlete likes to lose. We worked extremely hard in practice and the season was a frustrating one; however, I believe that the losses we suffered has made us a better team. I know it has made me a better player because it has given me a better perspective."

With all the success that Aaron has enjoyed, the next level is sure to place a call to the record-setting receiver. Dunklin stated, "There have been some people looking and inquiring; however, I should know something more concrete about a work-out sometime in late January or early February. I have several friends in the CFL who have been talking to management about me. If the opportunity presents itself, then I will definitely give it a shot. However, if the next level does not materialize I have my education that I am able to fall back on."

Dunklin is set to graduate in July of 2004 with a degree in Business Management with a minor in Psychology. There is no doubt that Dunklin has experienced more in football than most high school athletes can ever dream about. He had a record setting career at senior college, enjoyed some wins as a junior college player and played on some of the best teams that SSC has produced. However, his most memorable experience was the last game that he played in South Carolina. Dunklin explained, "My last game of the year was perhaps the one that I'll always remember. I had no idea that I had accomplished what I did in terms of records until they announced them. It was a moving moment. I had an opportunity to set the career mark in touchdown receptions but I pulled myself out due to some cramping. I figured I had done enough and it was time for the younger guys to get their turn."

The state of Mississippi produces more professional athletes per capita than any other state in the Union. Dunklin is very aware of that figure and has had to contend with the notion of being from Mississippi playing college ball in another state. He elaborated, "Most of the time, people got the state that I was from wrong. Most people over there thought I was from Missouri and I constantly corrected them saying I was from Mississippi. It seemed to shock them. However, Mississippi produces many of the best athletes and citizens in this country but people don't seem to take notice. We don't get enough credit for what we produce. We can produce as much quality as any other state."

With that said, the old adage holds true - the apple doesn't fall far from the tree. Dunklin did not hesitate to state that the biggest influence on his life has been his parents. He recalled, "My parents have been the most significant influence in my accomplishments. They chose to send me to St. Stanislaus to get a top-quality education. They both worked themselves to the bone to ensure that I had the best of everything. They sacrificed a tremendous amount for me and the only way that I can repay them is through hard work to be the very best that I can be. My coaches in high school - Coach Dave Kenson and Coach Jay Ladner - are also significant contributors to my success. Both of them always emphasized hard work and discipline to accomplish goals. Without any of these role models, I would not have accomplished what I have."

He continued, "Coach Maxfield at PRCC and the relationships I have made in college have also had a lasting effect on me. These people and the experiences surrounding them have taught me many valuable lessons in life. Everywhere I have been, I can equate all that I have experienced to one idea - Keep a good head on my shoulders and be humble. It will all work itself out."

Aaron Dunklin graduated from St. Stanislaus College in 2000. He is a former All-Division performer in football and basketball and was a standout track athlete for the Rocks.

Success has followed Dunklin everywhere he has put down roots. Success will continue to brighten Dunklin's life because of the aspects that surround him - hard work, determination, and dedication. All aspects that he learned in a small town in a state that not many people recognize. Congratulations, Aaron!

Notice of the Availability of an Environmental Assessment

The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from Standard Dedaux Water Association. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act, the Rural Utilities Service has prepared an Environmental Assessment that evaluated the potential environmental effects and consequences of the proposed project. This notice announces the availability of the Environmental Assessment for public review and comment.

The proposed project consists of approximately .50 miles of 4-inch through 8-inch PBC water mains which will serve an estimated 600 households. The water supply will come from a 600 gpm water well and a 150,000 gallon elevated storage tank.

A withdrawal permit must be obtained from the MEDQ, Bureau of Land Management and Water Resources. A visual survey will be conducted to determine the presence of any endangered listed species by the USFWS. The Corps of Engineers stated in their memo that a Pre-Construction Notification (PCN) be completed in order to determine the need for a permit. Any requirements will be incorporated into the plans and specifications for the project.

Several design alternatives were reviewed and the proposal selected was determined to be the most feasible with the least amount of environmental impact.

Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for review at the Rural Development Area Office, 132 Mayfair Road, Hattiesburg, Ms. For further information contact Robert W. Windham, Rural Utilities Loan Specialist at 601-261-3293. Any person interested in commenting on this proposed project should submit comments to the address above by February 2, 2004.

DuPont -- landfill permit will allow the plant to move forward with a waste unit "that will service the plant for at least ten - and hopefully many more - years."

The plant has filed an application with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to fill in approximately 24 acres of forested wetlands to construct a 32 acre waste disposal unit. The wetlands are on plant property and adjacent to existing waste management units, the application says.

The area is currently designated as a borrow pit area in the site's Resource Conservation and Recovery Act Permit and the new waste unit is intended to be used to provide continued capacity for solid wastes produced by the titanium dioxide process, the application says.

DuPont is proposing to mitigate an area of 80 acres adjoining a tract owned by the Mississippi Department of Marine Resources Coastal Preserves located just to the east of the plant. The company is proposing to restore, enhance and manage the area.

Nichols said the plant hopes to turn the additional acres over to the Coastal Preserves at some point in the future to add to the already existing 432 acres the plant recently sold the Coastal Preserve.

In a statement issued Wednesday, the Sierra Club said that there is already strong evidence that toxic emissions produced at the plant may be linked to an increased incidence of serious illness and death from serious illness in the area.

A lawsuit involving over 2000 local residents alleging illnesses caused by toxic emissions from the plant is expected to come to trial this year.

An investigation by the Agency for Toxic Substances and Disease Registry (ATSDR) into possible links to community illness is still currently underway, with results not yet conclusive. The agency said last year there was no conclusive evidence that the plant was causing the pollution of area groundwater, but are now in the process of checking for possible ground and air pollution factors that could be linked to toxic emissions from the plant. The ATSDR is limited in their investigation procedures to the review of evidence brought to them by individuals, the plant itself, or other agencies.

The Sierra Club is asking the Corps and the Mississippi Department of Environmental Quality to postpone their decision on the landfill permit at least until these investigations have been concluded. The club also calls for DuPont to refine their manufacturing process to prevent dioxin and heavy metal contamination.

The plant, the press release says, reported the release of over 14 million pounds of toxic emissions to the Toxic Release Inventory in 2001, the latest year for which figures are available. The plant is also responsible for the release of 42 percent of the dioxin like compounds released in the entire U.S. each year. Reports on the plant are available at www.epa.gov/tri.

Copies of the Sierra Club petition are available for signing at Da Beach House and Serenity Gallery in Bay St. Louis and at Dolly's on Hwy. 603 in Kiln or by calling 228-669-9446 to request a copy.

The best way to express your opinion on the matter, said Sierra Club officials, is to write directly to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Mobile District, P. O. Box 2288, Mobile, AL, 36628-0001. Refer to permit # MS03-03899-L. You may also call Chuck Sumner at the Corps at 251-694-3792 with any questions. You should also send copies of your letter to the MDEQ Office of Pollution Control at P. O. Hancock students spread Christmas cheer at Woodland Village

The Hancock High School Vo-Tech Frontline and Hawk's Nest RAT team, sponsored by PATH, The Partnership For A Healthy Mississippi serving Hancock and Pearl River Counties, have been busy this holiday season. They traveled to the Woodland Village Nursing Home in Diamondhead on Thursday December 11 to sing Christmas songs and pass out Christmas cards to the residents. The residents were very happy to see the small children and the students were happy to see the smiles on their faces. The Frontline and RAT teams have sponsored a clothing drive for Hope Haven and have collected items that will help them get through the holiday season.

Dearest Baby Brother, Craig,

Our family is suffering of a great loss. On New Year's Day you left behind some fantastic memories. We will remember your laugh, your smile, your jokes, your character, your skills, and your dreams.

We shared great thoughts, sad thoughts over the years. It will always bring me joy and not tears. Even though you were the baby, you were the strongest, but I know that inside you felt just as we did.

Now baby bro, we'll lay your body to rest. You were absolutely the best.

God has called His son back home to him and I thank Him for letting me share with you on our family limb.

Your sister,
Cookie

GLEANNING--THE POOR MAN'S HARVEST!

GATHERING THE GRAIN THAT THE REAPERS HAVE OVERLOOKED OR THE GRADES THAT THE PICKERS HAVE FAILED TO REMOVE AFTER THE VINTAGE SEASON (LEV. 19:9-10; LEV. 19:10-11). THE POOR MAN'S HARVEST BY LAW, ALSO BENEFITING THE WIDOW, THE ORPHAN, AND THE STRANGER IN THE LAND! THE OWNERS OF ALL FARMLAND WERE INSTRUCTED BY THE LAW NOT TO GLEAN THEIR HARVEST FIELDS OR VINEYARDS, NOR RETURN FOR A FORGOTTEN SHEATH, NOR GATHER ANY FALLEN FRUIT (LEV. 19:9-10; DEUT. 24:19). IN THIS MANNER THE ISRAELITES TOOK CARE OF ALL THEIR LESS FORTUNATE BRETHREN. A FINE EXAMPLE OF THIS IS THE STORY OF RUTH IN THE BIBLICAL BOOK OF RUTH.

Happy day all day on New Year's Day

Happy New Year! has always had a great ring about it, even though it does not make a lick of sense. Why does it not make a lick of sense?

Because it is a bold presumption that the greeted will be here tomorrow, and, somehow, well into the new year, if not throughout the whole new year.

Now how on earth can we know that any particular one of us will be around later today, let alone tomorrow? However, if we want to presume it, assume it, we all know what the dirty word assume makes of you and me.

Even if we do not assume it, we certainly wish it will happen, and we pray it will happen, so that the person will have many more years of life. While that is a very nice thought and wish, it bucks up against reality.

Chances are that a long-standing custom so ingrained, so emotional and so popular as the "Happy New Year!" wish will hardly be modified to any great extent for many years to come, if ever.

That said, we need nonetheless to do something about its reality. Harsh reality stares us in the face as we toll the unnumbered numbers of our beloved relatives, friends, classmates and schoolmates who have gone to eternity.

Each succeeding year makes these numbers only more intimidating and downright scary in human terms. However, we rise above human terms and accept them in spiritual terms of resurrection as taught us by the Master.

It is only and uniquely by this spiritual acceptance of eventual, inevitable terminal illness and death that we are able to rise above the crushing sadness of negativism, holiday blues, pessimism, cynicism and ultimate despair.

So, apart from the quite potent drive of long-standing custom, is "Happy New Year!" more an expression of wishful thinking than anything else?

There is strong evidence that our wishes are just that despite their sincerity.

The truth is that we know too much about our own and the precarious life situations of others.

At best, we are blessed with several decades of dynamic health and strength, reasonable success in our ventures, peace and content.

Unless we are extremely disciplined by the time we reach middle age, our health and activities hitched to it go downhill rather quickly, and we are left grasping to recover what was, straining to hold on to the foods and lifestyle which have been so good to us but which are now threatening to kill us.

Armed with this highly personal, uncomfortable knowledge, we face the prospects of each new year, actually of every new day, with a defensive, wistful mood of beating the odds of simultaneous high living and health.

By the time most people discover that high-on-the-hog living and good health are not compatible, they are too sick and broken to say anything but, "Well, you've got to die of something." Right. But don't push it needlessly.

If visions of sugarplums, a lottery hit, an extravagant crib, fancy wheels, elegant threads, luxurious vacations and travel, and famous friends dance frequently in your head, you are skirting the slippery slope of materialism.

Realistically, then, what kind of New Year/New Day can we wish each other? The very best of what? How much of what?

The older we get the more we realize that quantity simply cannot get it without high quality.

John 10:10's "I came that they might have life, and have it to the full" undoubtedly does not deal with our quantity of life, whether longevity or the amassing of our material assets. No, it deals supremely with quality of life.

When we were small and later adolescent, the dire life-and-death wisdom of this text evaded us because our physical health, strength and stamina outlasted whatever challenges of food, drink and endurance we had to face. This made many of us bolder, and even created a swagger in some of us.

Well, the bolder quickly grows older, and the swagger becomes a stagger, as we wend our way through what we call this Valley of Tears. Mortality ceases to be a matter of speculation and becomes a fact of confrontation.

Now, mind you, important as this wish for quality of life is, it is still not the top of the spiritual line.

Rather, it is only the beginning, the foundation of nature on which we build supernatural, or God's grace and gifts of the Spirit.

"This is where 'Happy New Year/New Day' dons its most meaningful form.

Sooner than later, "I wish you the best" has to mean, "I wish you the best God has to offer. I wish you all the gifts of the Spirit."

The biggest liability of the perennial "Happy New Year" wish is that most people tend to do it but once a year, one day a year. This stingy wish cheapens the rest of the days of the year if we do not wish them to be happy.

Why can't we greet one another as the gospel song does? Oh, Happy Day! Oh, Happy Day! When Jesus washed my sins away! And yours too, we add.

No doubt, the tall, fetching lady at the checkout door for Sam's Club put it best: "Well, darling, have a truly blessed day!"

The "Word" for the Week
Seeing the glory of Christ

Dennis J. Prutow • Box 303, Sterling, KS 67579

Now that Christmas is over and the new year is here, we can sit back and reflect on the season. Why is it that so many people, who hear the Christmas story, don't see the beauty in it?

Why is it that so many people, who listen to the carols and hear the narratives of Christ's birth, fail to see the glory of it all? Why have we just dropped back into the humdrum of life after hearing once again about the most important fact of history, the birth of the Son of God? There is an answer to these questions. You see, it is possible for people to hear the story and really understand it. Such people have the head knowledge all right. For the most part, if they pay attention, they get the facts. But what they lack is a work of the Holy Spirit in their minds and hearts throwing the searchlight of God's glory on to the words of the story. The Bible talks about this when it says, "For God, who said, 'light shall shine out of darkness,' is the one who has shown in our hearts to illumine the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (2 Corinthians 4:6). That's a literal translation! It shows us that God needs to shine in our hearts to light up the stories of the Bible.

When God does shine in our hearts, we do see the beauty and loveliness of Jesus Christ. So, people can hear about the birth of Christ over and over again. But because they lack the light of God's Holy Spirit shining in them, that story does not seem special at all. These people need to pray for the illuminating work of the Holy Spirit. Perhaps this is exactly where you are. Perhaps you need the illuminating work of the Holy Spirit. Jesus said, "How much shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to those who ask Him?" (Luke 11:13)

The Guardian is the topic at Second Friday Book Club

The Guardian by Nicholas Sparks is the book to be discussed at the Second Friday Book Club, on Friday, January 9, at 10 a.m. at the Kiln Public Library. The book club cosponsored by the Kin Public Library and Gloria Burlette.

The group was formed over a year ago and originally began meeting on the first Friday of every month. They moved to the second Friday to accommodate members. Each month the group discusses a different book.

The Sea Coast Echo

Hancock's Local Newspaper since 1892

Advertising is an investment in the success of your business. Every business has some kind of competition, either within the town, nearby city or from mail order firms. Your potential customers are being courted by your competitors. If you do not invite those customers to do business with you, they are likely to forget you and buy elsewhere. It is not uncommon for consumers to switch their trading from one store to another. Advertising helps to keep old customers and equally as important, make new ones.

Our community is constantly growing which means that potential customers are moving into the market area all the time. Advertising gives these newcomers a reason to visit your store.

Most businesses budget for their advertising expenses just as they do for other necessities such as rent, phones, etc. Smart business people realize that advertising is imperative to keep their business growing.

Another reason to advertise is that advertising is news! You profit by telling our readers what is new in your store. Through advertising, you can let a wide audience know the product lines you carry, the quality of your merchandise, the completeness of your service and the character of your store.

If you have something to sell, then you have something to advertise. When you have nothing to advertise, you are out of business. Advertising is designed to build your business and works best when it is repeated regularly. Consistent advertising pays off!

Now that you know some of the reasons to advertise, you're probably wondering how you can advertise most effectively. Surveys show that ads in local newspapers have more impact than in any other medium. The Sea Coast Echo goes into the majority of the homes in Hancock County. The Sea Coast Echo is full of interesting reading, it is a part of our community. People like to read about people and The Sea Coast Echo is full of pictures and stories about local people. The most important reason to advertise in The Sea Coast Echo is that our readers are your customers.

If you're looking for the best advertising value for your money, then you should contact the advertising department at The Sea Coast Echo. One of our advertising representatives will be happy to discuss the many advertising options offered by The Sea Coast Echo. For more information you may call 467-5474, Monday through Friday 8am to 5pm, or stop by our office at 124 Court Street, Bay St. Louis.

Since 1892, The Sea Coast Echo is proud to be a part of your community

Great Books Group to discuss Genesis

The Book of Genesis from the Bible will be the topic of discussion at the Great Books Discussion Group meeting on Wednesday, January 7, at 7 p.m. in the Seal Room of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The selection is from An Introduction to Great Books, First Series. Several copies are available for checkout at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

The Great Books discussion group, sponsored by the Hancock County Library System, has been meeting and discussing books since March, 1990. During that time, they read more than 345 titles from great books (Plato, Hobbes, Locke, deToqueville), Mississippi fiction, play readings and 20 philosophical questions. The group meets every other Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Great Books

Foundation was established in 1947 by University of Chicago Chancellor Robert Manyard Hutchins. Its mission is to provide people of all ages, backgrounds and walks of life with the opportunity to read, discuss and learn from outstanding works of literature.

Today, more than 20,000 adults are members of Great Books discussion groups, and nearly one million students participate in Junior Great Books groups for grades kindergarten through 12.

Anyone is welcome to attend the meetings. The only requirement is that you read the selection before the meeting. For information, call Jamie Elston at 467-5282.

Cowboys and girls vie for $100,000

THE SEA COAST ECHO

The Professional Cowboy Association (PCA) provides rodeo's premier showcase annually with its Finals Rodeo competition each January at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Offering an alluring stage for cowboys and cowgirls to display their talents, and earn their share of the $100,000 purse offered by the PCA. These cowboys and cowgirls work all year to qualify for a place in the PCFR Finals Rodeo in each of seven events—bareback riding, steer wrestling, team roping, calf roping, breakaway roping, barrel racing and bull riding.

Competing in PCA sanctioned rodeos throughout the year, the PCFR finalists are determined by their year-end standings, or cash winnings, in their chosen events. The top 15 contestants from each event are then invited to participate in the Finals Rodeo—vying for their place in the PCA's prestigious Arena of Champions for the upcoming year!

All qualifying contestants are presented with an official PCA Finals Rodeo jacket for their accomplishments, determination and hard work. Later in the month, during the annual awards banquet, the winners from each event are given their awards, including: limited edition PCFR Finals Rodeo handcrafted silver belt buckles and commemorative, personalized saddles.

With four performances, Thursday, Friday, Saturday nights, and an additional performance on Sunday afternoon, the rodeo action begins with the Grand Entry—the rodeo clowns, and the excitement pulsating from the chute gates as each contestant prepares for their ride.

All together, thousands of rodeo fans come from near and far to the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi, Mississippi to witness the spectacle, cheering their favorite cowboys and cowgirls on to victory.

Included as part of the Finals Rodeo activities are after rodeo parties each night, provided to the PCFR contestants by our sponsors. Great food, live bands, dancing, and overall fun is experienced by all who attend. An awards banquet is held during Finals Rodeo week commemorating the contributions made by our Association Committees, Stock Contractors, Sponsors, and the staff of the Professional Cowboy Association.

Checking in with Lara Spencer

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

For years, Lara Spencer of ABC's "Good Morning America" had her Monday-night ritual. She turned off the phone and settled in to watch her favorite show, PBS' "Antiques Roadshow."

And every Monday night she would pine about what a great job it would be to host the show in which people cart in a table that has been relegated to the attic, and find it is worth a fortune.

After a particularly bad day at work last winter, Spencer returned to her home on Connecticut's gold coast and found a newspaper article tacked to the door. The article, from an antiques newspaper, was about the host of "Antiques Roadshow" leaving. Spencer's husband left a note on the article: "Put your money where your mouth is."

On Monday, Jan. 5 (check local listings), Spencer begins as host for the new season of the show. The 14 episodes were taped in Chicago, San Francisco, Oklahoma City and Savannah, Ga. Her boss at "Good Morning America" was fine about letting her do this, and hopes Spencer can bring some of the PBS show's 10.5 million viewers with her.

For Spencer, the gig really is a dream realized. As the youngest of six, she grew up on Long Island going to yard sales with her mom. Later, as a news reporter earning little money, she continued to haunt the used stores for bargains.

"I would go to the Salvation Army and Goodwill, looking for chairs," Spencer says. "I found people throw away great stuff."

Lara Spencer

Indeed, Spencer inadvertently made the buy of an "Antiques Roadshow" showstopper. Years ago, she bought two drawings for $35, which was a little pricey. When she had them framed, Spencer learned they were Picasso lithographs.

Hometown: Garden City, Long Island, N.Y.

Residence: Riverside, Conn.

Birthdate: June 19, 1969

Family: Husband, David Haffner; and son, David, 2

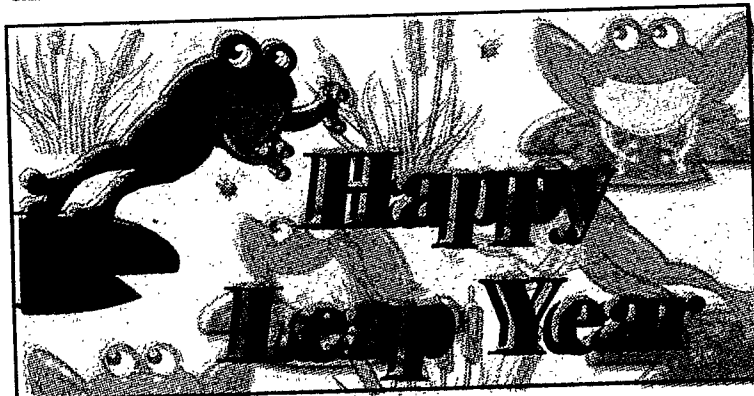

Knew she wanted to be a journalist: "I still have the paper that I wrote in fifth grade and my hero was Barbara Walters," she says.

Most scared on a story: She and officers arrived on the scene to find a body stuffed in a trunk. "I realized that features were looking better and better," she says.

Best interviews: Eddie Murphy, Tiger Woods.

Worst interview: Robert De Niro.

Goal: "I would love viewers to realize antiques are hip and fun and exciting," she says.

Another is wooed by 'Average Joe'

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Will an "Average Joe" be the one to get the girl the second time around?

He didn't the first time, when Melana Scantlin went for hunk Jason Peoples instead of rival Adam Mesh. The test is put into practice again as "Average Joe: Hawaii," the unscripted NBC series' second version (taped before the first one aired), premieres Monday, Jan. 5.

Ex-beauty queen and NFL cheerleader, Scantlin initially was stunned - horrified, some might say - to meet her less-than-perfect prospects, and 2001 Miss USA runner-up Larissa Meek gets a similar shock on a secluded Hawaiian island.

"We had to come up with a whole new cast to hate us," executive producer Stuart Krasnow says. "As great as the first series was, it was exhausting. This cast is far more intelligent as a group than the kind of cast you normally deal with on this kind of show."

"They get very upset, especially the first day when they look at the other people involved. We don't tell them what show they're going to be on, then they wonder why they're grouped with other people who look a certain way. A lot of the time, they don't feel they belong there, so it's a huge process of adjustment."

That goes for the women as much as the men; each time, Krasnow has feared losing his key player. "The second girl's reaction is much angrier," he reports. "This is a multimillion-dollar production that rests on one person, and it's the same feeling I'm sure a movie director would have if his star walked off the set."

A memorable twist of the first "Average Joe" had Scantlin posing as a much heavier cousin, which helped her eliminate two men after hidden microphones picked up remarks about her "relative." Krasnow says viewers can expect something similar in "Average Joe: Hawaii."

Gone but not forgotten: TV talents we lost

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Thanks for the memories. Maybe that sounds trite now, having lost the man who coined that trademark phrase, but fond recollections of him and a number of other entertainers from television - and, in many cases, other mediums as well - remain following their deaths in 2003.

Here are a few who lit up screens in countless homes during their time.

BOB HOPE: Simply put, a legend has left us. Shortly after reaching the age of 100, the self-effacing joker whose birthday celebrations and USO tours became national TV events, died, prompting numerous tributes. For one entertainer to mean so much to so many is something most can only aspire to.

JOHN RITTER: Arguably no celebrity death in 2003 was more shocking than the passing of the beloved Emmy-winning veteran of "Three's Company," who had taken ill while working on the ABC series "8 Simple Rules for Dating My Teenage Daughter." Still boyish in his mid-50s, Ritter combined a puppy-dog quality (which he also used well as the voice of "Clifford" on PBS) and a knack for physical humor into an engaging persona that's virtually irreplaceable.

ART CARNEY: Jackie Gleason may have been the ideal Ralph Kramden, but could "The Honeymooners" have given him a better comedy partner than the actor who became legendary as Ed Norton? Carney had many opportunities to show his dramatic skills, too - notably in his Oscar-winning performance in "Harry & Tonto" - but making many generations laugh is his larger legacy.

BUDDY EBS: Viewers will be listening to a story 'bout a man named Jed for ages, thanks to what the would-be Tin Man of "The Wizard of Oz" brought to the classic sitcom "The Beverly Hillbillies." Ebsen's quiet and calm authority gave him another long TV run as private eye "Barnaby Jones."

ROBERT STACK: As funny as he was in the movie spoof "Airplane!" TV images of Stack with a Tommy gun ("The Untouchables") and in a trench-coat ("Unsolved Mysteries") are the ones destined to stick.

FRED ROGERS: When wasn't it a beautiful day in the neighborhood while this PBS staple was around to impart his gentle wisdom? Thankfully, repeats will keep Mister Rogers a touchstone from whom many youngsters will likely learn without realizing he's gone.

DAVID BRINKLEY: TV Journalism saw one of its earliest, most significant changes when NBC partnered Brinkley with Chet Huntley permanently after their work on a political convention.

DAVID BLOOM: Though it wasn't a direct result of combat, the untimely death of the NBC News correspondent who bravely rode atop his "Bloomobile" was one of the earliest tragedies to bring the war in Iraq home for many viewers.

GREGORY PECK: Whenever this towering film star made a TV appearance, you knew it ... in projects such as the miniseries "The Blue and the Gray" (as Abraham Lincoln), and in a remake of "Moby Dick" in which he had also starred on the big screen.

CHARLES BRONSON: The late-'50s ABC show "Man With a Camera" helped tough guy Bronson make the leap from villain to hero. In the wake of "Death Wish," he maintained that image in TV-movie cop stories, but he also revealed his softer side in "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus."

Showbiz legend Bob Hope was among the TV stars who died in 2003, and whose passings have left legacies of entertainment that are certain to be enjoyed by many generations to come.

NELL CARTER: With "Gimme a Break" as both the title of her comedy series and the mantra of the boisterous character she played, there was no ignoring or mistaking Carter's zest.

ROD RODDY: Bob Barker is the driving force of "The Price Is Right," but he needs a spirited announcer to invite players to "come on down" ... and after the passing of Johnny Olson, former "Soap" narrator Roddy proved time and again that he was the right man for the job.

JONATHAN BRANDIS: A teen idol during his days as young genius Lucas on the Steven Spielberg-produced "seaQuest DSV," this actor died recently at the far-too-young age of 27. May all of these gifted people rest in peace - and may we all appreciate their work for many years to come.

'CSI: Miami' star made a splash in 'West Wing'

By Taylor Michaels
© Zap2it

Q ■ Wasn't Emily Procter of "CSI: Miami" on "The West Wing" previously? Is she related to Elizabeth Mitchell of "The Lyon's Den"? I notice what appear to be many similarities between them. - Edna H., Sacramento, Calif.

A ■ Yes, before landing her "Miami" role as Calleigh Duquesne, Procter - who is not related to Mitchell - made a big splash on "The West Wing" as feisty Republican lawyer Ainsley Hayes, a recurring role she played from 2000 to 2002. That Southern accent is the real deal, by the way: Procter hails from Raleigh, N.C.

Q ■ At the end of a recent episode of "Still Standing," there was a tribute "In loving memory of Jacintha Van Dal." Who was she? - K. Myers via e-mail.

A ■ A CBS publicist for the show says that Van Dal was the longtime executive assistant of "Standing" co-executive producer Regis Stewart. Van Dal died last summer.

Q ■ I recognized Pat Carroll in the lovely movie "The Song Catcher." What TV shows did she play in? - Mary Fridge, Hurst, Texas.

A ■ Now 76, veteran character actress Pat Carroll has an illustrious list of credits dating back to the live TV golden age of the 1950s, but she is perhaps best known to many of us graying baby boomers as Bunny Halper, the cheerful wife of nightclub owner Charley Halper (Sid Melton) she played on "The Danny Thomas Show" (CBS, 1961-64).

She also was a series regular on "The Charley Weaver Show," "Getting Together," "Busting Loose," "Too Close for Comfort" and "She's the Sheriff."

Of course, small fry know her booming contralto voice from her work as evil Ursula the Sea Witch in Disney's animated musical "The Little Mermaid" and its various spinoffs. In the holiday special "A Garfield Christmas," that was Carroll doing the voice of Jon's melancholy Grandma as well. She also has a long list of sitcom guest appearances, and was a popular panelist on vintage game shows as well.

Q ■ Is there a new Stevie on "Malcolm in the Middle" or have the original actor's looks and voice changed a lot since last season? - Gary Calhoun, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A ■ Chalk it up to puberty. At 14, Craig Lamar Traylor - who continues to play Stevie, as he always has - is undergoing an unusually striking transformation into young adulthood.

Trump seeks an 'Apprentice' who shares his edifice complex

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

"This is the real jungle," Donald Trump says from behind his desk, gesturing at Manhattan's skyline.

Who should know better than the king of this jungle, New York's business world? Trump, never known to shy away from cameras, stars in reality show impresario Mark Burnett's latest creation, "The Apprentice." It premieres Thursday, Jan. 8, on NBC, in a 90-minute show before moving to its regular time slot on Wednesday, Jan. 14.

As would behoove two men who deal in superlatives, "The Apprentice" had some 215,000 applicants, more than any show in television history, according to NBC. These contestants want more than what reality shows dangle before players - love, sex and money. They want power.

Whether any of them have what it takes to earn or seize power remains to be seen. The big payoff is a one-year job with a serious title - president of a division in the Trump Organization - and a salary of $250,000. The live finale of the 15-episode show airs in April. As of now, even Trump is not certain who wins.

Trump, always the businessman, was non-committal about the winner's future. "It's a one-year job and at the end of the year, we'll see what happens," he says.

Once the nearly quarter of a million hopefuls were culled to 16 contestants, Trump became involved. And, he is involved in each step. He divided the contestants into two teams, men vs. women. They lived in a Trump loft in midtown, while the show taped.

In the first episode, the contestants meet at the New York Stock Exchange and Trump gives them their first task: Operate a lemonade stand. This may sound like child's play, but the object of the task is simple: Turn a profit. Earning money, however, is not always easy.

Another task involves renovating and leasing a Manhattan apartment, one of which Trump owns.

"Each (task) is about how much money they can make each week," Burnett says from Los Angeles prior to boarding a plane to an undisclosed location for the next edition of "Survivor."

Other tasks have the diverse contestants launching a brand of bottled water and getting it into restaurants, and operating bicycle rickshaws in Manhattan. At the completion of each task, the winning team is awarded a lavish prize and someone from the losing team is fired.

Trump personally gives people the boot. He looks unusually comfortable, in a brief clips tape, saying, "You are fired." In his office, however, Trump appears more subdued than his public persona. Firing employees is "part of life," he says. "It's not nice. There are some people who love firing people, but they are sickos."

Trump and Burnett independently rave about the intelligence of the contestants who range from street-smart hustlers to Harvard MBA alumni.

"These people are truly brilliant," Trump says. "The toughest thing was choosing between two super geniuses. They went through hell and did an amazing job." Still, Trump concedes, "Sometimes, I was amazed that someone with a 215 IQ would do amazingly stupid things."

As usual with Burnett, he did not allow contestants to talk with the press. The tape of them shows Type-A personalities intent on victory, at any price. And, some young women dress like the wrong sort of working girl.

Contestants, who range from 21 to 37, include three who work in real estate and several entrepreneurs, including Bill Rancic, 32, of Chicago. He started a cigar business out of a tiny apartment and turned it into a multimillion dollar business. Some are stock brokers and many experienced major gains and losses in the dotcom boom.

Contestants filled out an application that included the question, "Tell us an embarrassing story about yourself." Trump, whose dalliances have been tabloid fodder for years, hemmed and hawed before finally answering that "being turned down by a woman, which happened to me in earlier years," was his most embarrassing predicament.

A more standard question on the application queries contestants about where they hope to be in five years. "I'm more inclined to think I'll be doing what I'm doing," Trump says. "I do it well, and I get a kick out of it."

PBS examines 50 years of scientific research in 'DNA'

By Jacqueline Cutler
© Zap2it

D-N-A are three letters that have become so common, one would think they always have been around.

Of course they have, but it was not until 50 years ago that scientists figured out the genetic key to life. Still, for those who did not earn science degrees, what is DNA? PBS gamely answers this question with "DNA," a five-part series beginning Sunday, Jan. 4, and airing on consecutive Sundays (check local listings).

Most of the series aired in Great Britain last spring with a narrator different than Jeff Goldblum, who provides the story here. Although "DNA" is fact-packed and visually stunning, it lags at times. Seeing beer poured when scientists meet, and lingering still-life shots detract from the series.

The story begins with two then-unknown scientists, Dr. James D. Watson and Dr. Francis Crick, who discovered the double-helix structure of DNA in England 50 years ago. They went shouting into a pub that they had discovered the secret of life. DNA, or deoxyribonucleic acid, is in the chromosomes of all cells.

In the first episode, "The Secrets of Life," Watson, Crick and the late Dr. Rosalind Franklin are hailed for their labors in postwar England. Credit "DNA" for tackling the messy question of who should be credited, as scientists still debate whose research was most instrumental.

In a posh duplex next to the United Nations, Watson reflects on the changes the discovery wrought. He believes knowledge gleaned about DNA should be used to improve life. Although some people liken his opinions to that of Nazi eugenics, Watson, who has a mentally ill son, is resolute.

He simply speaks his mind, not really caring if his opinions are accepted. But as a Nobel Laureate, a former Harvard professor, president of Cold Springs Harbor Labs, an esteemed author and at age 75, he need not seek much validation.

Watson stares at the strange sight of snow blowing upward outside his 35th story window and says, "The rigidity of scientists not wanting to accept new things - they're as bad as the Catholic Church."

When he and Crick determined DNA was in a double helix, Watson was not envisioning cloning or bioengineering of food. Over the years, the discovery has led to protracted fights among scientists and big business, which continues to patent sections of DNA to profit from people's illnesses.

"DNA" pulls no punches as it shows the internal fights among research scientists and the greediness of big business. Part 2, "Playing God," shows how genetically engineered insulin has saved millions of people. Part 3, "The Human Race," is the slowest segment despite that it chronicles the race to catalog the human genome. Former President Clinton says helping to broker the deal to chart the genome "was one of the single achievements of my presidency."

Part 4, "Curing Cancer," delves into how scientists trace cancer to its DNA. By the final installment, "Pandora's Box," Watson talks about why all of these advances should be used to change people.

"What would be wrong if all girls were pretty?" he asks, leaning across his desk. "People say it is OK to weed out HIV, but why not make a better memory?"

Despite his achievements, Watson has goals. "To understand mental illness," he says. "And to cure cancer."

Hallucinations, bad luck come to fore

By George Dickie

It goes without saying that adventure racing comes with its set of challenges.

But there are challenges and then there is just plain back luck. Just ask Maj. Bill Holmes, a competitor for Team King Oscar in the Subaru Primal Quest, which airs Saturday, Jan. 10, on CBS.

"It started from the time we got on the airplane to go out there," says Holmes, a U.S. Marine who, with teammates Maj. Charlie Miles and Chief Warrant Officer Jon Wingler, served in Iraq last spring. "We had a 12-hour flight, delays, lost luggage, lost gear, the hotel reservations weren't right."

"I had one teammate get really sick, really dehydrated for some reason. Another teammate had a really serious bike accident that forced him out of the race. And then, of course, I had gallstones, unbeknownst to myself. I kept feeling sick, and I thought, 'Maybe it's just the race, and I'm working too hard or something.' But I ended up with gallstones and had to have surgery. On the flat-water paddle, our boat sank twice. It had a hole in the hull, and it was just one thing after another. It never seemed to stop. We never caught a break."

Taped over 10 days in the Lake Tahoe area of California and Nevada in September, the Subaru Primal Quest is a round-the-clock, 400-plus-mile adventure race in which 100 co-ed four-member teams test themselves in disciplines that include flat-water and white-water paddling, trail running, hiking, navigation, caving, ropes work, mountain and road biking.

In addition to those obstacles, the race's rigorous demands force competitors to step up calorie intake (up to 5,000 a day) and function on little sleep, which can sometimes result in hallucinations. It also tends to reveal character.

"Oh, absolutely," says race co-director and Primal Quest Chief Operating Officer Dan Burton. "You get to know your teammates very well, and they get to know you. There are things about you that you don't necessarily want to show people. But it'll come out, for sure. It's a pretty amazing sport."

Burton is the co-founder of Subaru Primal Quest (with Chief Executive Officer Dan Burton), and is an experienced adventure racer. She says that in past races, she, too, has fallen victim to fatigue-induced hallucinations during the night portions of races.

"I was in a race, and we were walking through this field," Burton recalls, "and I kept saying to my teammates, 'There is a party going on over here in this field.' And they're like, 'Whatever, Maria. Don't worry about it.' 'No, no, really.' And I was convinced that there were party hats and confetti all through this field. And so I said, 'Guys, I gotta stop and check this out.' My vision was playing tricks on me. So I stopped and I reached down into the grass and I felt it, and of course, it was just grass. And then everything went away. But for the longest time, I'm looking at this field, and it was just party hats and confetti."

Hallucinations can plague anyone. Burton points out, citing the example of blind mountaineer Erik Weihenmayer, whose experience climbing Mount Everest didn't fully prepare him for the Primal Quest. "He said that because of the way they navigate with the team - one of the team members carries a bell on their checking pole or on their arm - when they walk, he follows the bell. That's how he walks, because they don't hold his hand the whole time or anything. And he said that these bells all of a sudden were coming from all directions, and he couldn't distinguish which direction he was supposed to go, and so then he started walking around in circles trying to figure where these bells were coming from."

"And it was a whole series of images that he said were flying through his brain, and he was getting dizzy from it. He just couldn't figure out which way was up, pretty much, at the end of it. It was pretty bizarre, actually."

"There's some neat things that happen," Burton continues, "and like I said, I think it's just a product of the sport and pushing your body to the nth degree, but it affects your mental side of things, your physical side of things, and, of course, your spirits along with you. So, it's pretty revealing being out there for days on end."

"Sugar Bowl" Sunday, Jan. 4 (ABC, 8 p.m. ET): A national champion BCS style is crowned tonight when the defensive-minded LSU Tigers battle the high-scoring Oklahoma Sooners in New Orleans. Heisman Trophy winner Jason White, with 40 touchdown passes and over 3,700 passing yards, keys the Sooners' attack, but he faces his stiffest test yet in LSU's defense, which allows just 10.8 points per game. A key matchup will be how OU's receivers fare against the Tigers' big cornerbacks.

"Mercedes Championship" Thursday, Jan. 8 (ESPN, 7 p.m. ET): Have clubs, will travel. That seems to be the motto of the PGA Tour pros, whose off-season seems shorter than a drunk's temper at the sound of last call. The tour's eleven-month schedule begins in Kapalua, Hawaii, at the Mercedes Championship, whose field is made up of the 2003 PGA event winners. Among them are Player of the Year Tiger Woods, Vijay Singh (last season's leading money winner), Mike Weir, defending champ Ernie Els and Kenny Perry.

"Houston Rockets at New York Knicks" Thursday, Jan. 8 (TNT, 7 p.m. ET): The current plight of the New York Knicks is such that the opposing coach should receive the loudest cheers during tonight's pregame introductions. Jeff Van Gundy returns to the MSG sidelines for the first time since resigning his Knicks' post 19 games into the 2001-2002 season. He's now leading the Houston Rockets, trying to meld the varying talents of Yao Ming and Steve Francis into a consistently competitive unit like the one he once led in New York.

All My Children

Babe told J.R. about her brief marriage to Paul, but didn't reveal that it was never annulled. Babe then told Paul that their marriage is still valid and demanded that he help her take the paternity test results if necessary. Paul stood up to her threats, confident she won't tell J.R. everything. Ted made love to Krystal, hoping to find the papers she's hiding, but she knew what he was after all along. Greenlee and Juan Pablo had a romantic reunion but she later shared a kiss with Ryan, which turned passionate. Coming: Kendall wonders if she can still trust Ryan.

As the World Turns

Holden brought Lily back from Atlantic City but it was Daisy who broke through to her, getting Lily to admit that Rose is gone. Craig stole the evidence from Molly's room and replanted it in Paul's crypt. Paul was arrested after Hal found him in the Ryan mausoleum, holding the telltale goblet in his hands. With Mitzi back in town, Holden made it clear he still suspects her of the crime. Alison almost told Chris about the baby but Aaron acted protective after Chris accidentally pushed Alison and no one revealed the truth. When Sarah was charged with stealing, Jessica declared that she is Sarah's lawyer. Coming: Lily is out for revenge. Bold and Beautiful: Brooke and Ridge went to the cabin, where she told him that she is leaving him. Despite admitting that they love each other, Brooke gave back her wedding ring and walked out, saying only to a devastated Ridge that they'll find their way back together eventually.

Nick was surprised when Stephanie showed up to tell him that Brooke is ending things with Ridge. With Sally and Thome by her side, Darla gave birth to a baby girl. Deacon managed to take a step on his own. However, when he saw Bridget in her wedding gown kissing Oscar, Deacon vowed never to give up on her. Coming: Deacon handles his recovery in his own way.

Days of Our Lives

Tony was arrested after Rex found the killer's message in Tony's PDA. Denying he is the killer, Tony was released on bail and privately vowed the destruction of the Brady family. Over Sam's vehement objections, Roman and Kate were married. Learning that the evidence he needed to arrest Nicole and Victor for Colin's murder was in the Tuscan kitchen, Roman found the envelope there - as well as the Salem Stalker. As Roman unmasked his attacker, he was slashed, leaving Kate to discover the horrifying aftermath. When Nicole showed Victor the bloodstained envelope, he wondered what she did to get the evidence away from Roman. Philip was shocked to see Chloe. Coming: Dealing with another unbearable loss.

General Hospital

Scott was revealed to be Alcazar's partner in crime. Alcazar admitted to Carly that he kissed her on the Haunted Star, and Jason watched as they came close to another embrace. Nikolas saved Emily from drowning when she was knocked unconscious following Cody to the grotto, where the treasure was hidden. Sam evaded a gun-wielding Ben and fled with the treasure on Sonny's plane, news that was relayed to Jax. After Sage ruined a possible reconciliation between Dillon and George, George decided to create a fantasy boyfriend to make Dillon jealous. Zander agreed to let Ric and Elizabeth raise his child as their own. Coming: Nicolas and Emily go treasure hunting.

Guiding Light

Shayne underwent surgery as the result of his fall on Christmas. When Ed nearly gave Shayne the wrong medicine, the pressure became too much and Ed told Billy, Buzz and Josh that he can't keep the secret any longer. Marsh made love with Jeffrey, who assured her that it meant a lot to him. But after Jeffrey learned about the car that was raised from Cutter's Bridge, he reverted to his old self, and deleted a message that Marsh left for him. Coming: Michelle shares what she learned from Carrie.

One Life to Live

Blair revealed to Walker that she knows he's Todd and swore never to forgive him. Kevin then had Todd arrested for drunk driving. Kelly's scheme to make Kevin worry about her by playing victim backfired and she was devastated when he handed her divorce papers. After making love with Kevin, a regretful Blair told him it must never happen again. Blair taunted Todd, whose menacing response frightened her. Nora encountered Troy and urged him to surrender, but instead he fled. David suggested to Dorian that they pass Adriana off as her daughter to get hold of Aunt Betsy's fortune. Coming: Marcie takes timely action to help Jen.

Meanwhile, Alistair plotted to use Antonio's love for Sheridan as the means to destroy both his daughter and the Lopez-Fitzgeralds. Coming: Charity sinks into despair.

Young and Restless

Cameron demanded that Sharon meet him at his motel room or else he'll tell Nick about their affair. When Cameron assaulted Sharon for refusing to undress, she grabbed a champagne bottle to defend herself. Lily and her family were appalled when Kevin showed up at their door and told them the restraining order has been lifted. When Kevin later followed them to the New Year's party, Colleen told Paul, who threw Kevin out. Supernatural soap rises from the dead

By Candace Havens

The ABC daytime drama "Port Charles" has made a return of sorts.

The cable channel SoapNet began carrying the soap on Dec. 29. But they aren't going back to the very beginning of the series. Reruns of the show begin with the "Fate" story, which deals with the aftermath of Ian and Eve's (Thorsten Kaye, Julie Pinson) deaths. Of course, they aren't really dead. An evil man from Ian's past kidnapped the couple.

Lucy Coe and Kevin Collins (Lynn Herring, Jon Lindstrom), along with the whole "PC" gang, are back, reminding fans why it was so much fun to watch. And it gives viewers an opportunity to catch episodes they missed and relive those great memories.

In other news: Former "Days of Our Lives" star Roark Critchlow (ex-Mike Horton) has taken on a new role as Dr. Ackland on the NBC daytime drama "Passions."

Critchlow's character is a psychiatrist who will be involved with several Harmony residents.

Dear Candace: I had heard that a young soap actress from "One Life to Live" had died a while back. Can you tell me who she was and what character she played? -Marsha C. via the Internet.

Dear Reader: Perhaps you are thinking of Kellie Waymire (ex-Emily Haynes) who was in "OLTL" years ago. She died on Nov. 13, 2003. Some of the other shows she appeared on include "Seinfeld," "NYPD Blue," "Six Feet Under," "Ally McBeal" and "The Practice."

Dear Candace: I had heard that there was a possibility Nadia Bjorlin, who played Chloe for several years on "Days," might return for good. Can you tell me if this is true? -Carrie O'Rourke in Arkansas.

Dear Reader: Bjorlin recently returned to the daytime drama for a short stint, but is open to coming back for good.

Dear Candace: Is Michael (William deVry) gone for good on "All My Children"?

Dear Reader: Yes, deVry has moved to Los Angeles for pilot season but says he has fond memories of his days on the soap opera.

NHL Hockey

Trying to win hockey games 1-0 isn't a blueprint for NHL success, something the Minnesota Wild are discovering this season. The disciplined defensive play that carried them to the Western Conference final last season is still evident, but it's their lack of goal scoring that's holding them back. The Wild could use a guy like the St. Louis Blues' Pavol Demitra, who along with Keith Tkachuk forms one of the league's top scoring duos.

The Simpsons

The Simpsons visit England, and are welcomed by none other than Prime Minister Tony Blair (voicing his animated likeness). In "The Regina Monologues," while touring Great Britain, the relatives also encounter "Harry Potter" author J.K. Rowling, veteran actor Ian McKellen ("The Lord of the Rings" trilogy) and the original "Joe Millionaire," Evan Marriott (also lending their voices to their cartoon images).

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Jack (Kiefer Sutherland) is stunned to discover who is bidding against him and the Salazars (Joaquim de Almeida, Vincent Laresca) for the virus in the new episode "Day 3: 9:00 — 10:00 PM." President Palmer (Dennis Haysbert) has to make a difficult decision about his brother (guest star DB Woodside), who dallied with the wife of one of the chief executive's main supporters.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

The Guardian

A youngster needs shelter and emotional support after his father suffers a breakdown and goes on a shooting rampage at work in the new episode "Legacy." Nick (Simon Baker) tries to help the boy while Burton (Dabney Coleman) deals with the murdered boss's son, who only wants to assume his slain father's job. Nick makes serious confessions to Lulu (Wendy Moniz). Doug Savant ("Melrose Place") guest stars.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS

American Experience

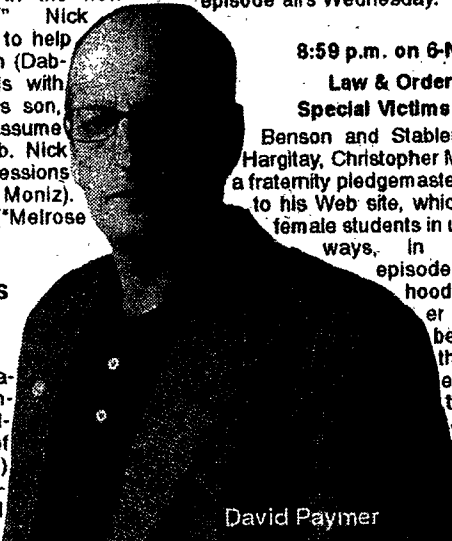

In Part 2 of "Abraham and Mary Lincoln: A House Divided," Lincoln (voice of David Morse) assumes the presidency as the Civil War divides the country. His wife (voice of Holly Hunter) is accused of taking the side of the Confederates, but the couple faces a personal tragedy in the course of the conflict that is sweeping the entire nation. The concluding episode airs Wednesday.

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) link a fraternity pledge master's murder to his Web site, which displays female students in unflattering ways. In the new episode "Brotherhood," the other frat members are less than cooperative with the police detectives. Gary Cole ("The West Wing") plays the victim's father; tennis star Serena Williams also guest stars.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Line of Fire

A relative (guest star Polly Cusumano) becomes Malloy's (David Paymer) newest employee, as she goes to work at the bordello he operates, in the new episode "The Best-Laid Plans." Lisa (Leslie Hope) puts her FBI operatives on a search for a missing youngster. Ever Carradine ("Lucky") also guest stars.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS

Judging Amy

In the new episode "Christenings," Cheech Marin guest stars as a landscaper who takes a personal interest in Maxine (Tyne Daly), while she is concerned about a woman's choice of religion over medicine to help her autistic son. Amy (Amy Brenneman) ponders whether a teenager who runs a Web site supporting anorexia is responsible for another teen's death.

9 p.m. on MTV

The Real World

The unscripted series sometimes stirs controversy during its run, but the 14th season — set in San Diego — didn't even wait to get on the air for that. A woman (not a member of the cast or crew) has claimed she was sexually assaulted at the building used to house the show's "seven strangers." Before that, new housemate Robin was arrested for allegedly punching, then scratching a man at a San Diego bar.

9:10 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Contact

This 1997 adaptation of a novel by Carl Sagan won critics' hearts for emphasizing smart dialogue and well-rounded characters over eye-popping special effects. Jodie Foster stars as an astronomer who monitors the heavens for signs of life. When the aliens answer the call, she suddenly has lots of competition for their attention.

7 p.m. on 19-PBS Great Performances

A close tie between two artistic forms is explored in the new episode "Degas and the Dance," which details the reasons so much choreography of late-19th-century Paris was captured in paintings, drawings and sculptures by French Impressionist Edgar Degas. Those works recently were showcased in an exhibit displayed at several major U.S. museums. Actor Frank Langella ("Dracula") narrates.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC The West Wing

"The Stormy Present" — the drama series' 100th episode — features the return of guest star John Goodman as the former speaker of the House, who assumed President Bartlet's (Martin Sheen) office temporarily. Bartlet travels with him and another ex-president (guest star James Cromwell) to the funeral of another chief executive. En route to the service, Bartlet is distracted by a crisis brewing in Saudi Arabia.

8 p.m. on 19-PBS American Experience

"Abraham and Mary Lincoln: A House Divided" concludes as the Emancipation Proclamation stirs plenty of controversy. The president's (voice of David Morse) leadership skills are questioned, while his wife's (voice of Holly Hunter) free-spending ways puts the couple deeply in debt. When the Civil War ends, he hopes to spend considerably more time with her — but an actor by the name of John Wilkes Booth intervenes.

8:30 p.m. on 4-CBS Becker

After learning that a childhood friend full-

Hattie Winston

filled her dream of becoming a designer. Margaret (Hattie Winston) is filled with regret over not pursuing her original career choice — singing — in the new episode "Margaret Sings the Blues." She goes AWOL from work, sending Becker (Ted Danson) on a search for her and leaving Linda (Shawnee Smith) to deal with several flu patients.

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC Law & Order

A homeless man's death proves to involve more than the hit-and-run accident initially suspected in the new episode "Darwinian." Briscoe and Green (Jerry Orbach, Jesse L. Martin) determine that the victim was stuck in the car's windshield, then left to die in the garage of the driver — a well-known publicist against whom McCoy and Southern (Sam Waterston, Elisabeth Rohm) seek a murder charge.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC Celebrity Mole Yucatan

Sneakiness and betrayals are likely to abound again as several celebrities start playing the unscripted series' latest edition, set in Mexico. Stephen Baldwin and Corbin Bernsen may have an edge, since they also participated in "Celebrity Mole Hawaii." Tracey Gold ("Growing Pains"), Keshia Knight Pulliam ("The Cosby Show") and basketball legend Dennis Rodman are among their rivals for a potential $250,000 grand prize.

9:25 p.m. on AMC

Bond Girls Are Forever

Maryam d'Abo — the leading lady of the 007 adventure "The Living Daylights" — talks with other "Bond girls" in this special. Interviewees include Ursula Andress ("Dr. No"), Honor Blackman ("Goldfinger"), Jill St. John ("Diamonds Are Forever"), Jane Seymour ("Live and Let Die"), Carey Lowell ("Licence to Kill") and Halle Berry ("Die Another Day").

1:50 p.m. and TMC

Movie: Changing Lanes

Director Roger Michell's ("Notting Hill") involving 2002 drama casts Ben Affleck and Samuel L. Jackson as men from vastly different backgrounds. Their paths cross when they're involved in a car accident that lawyer Affleck rushes off from, leaving Jackson's character stranded — and late for a child-custody hearing that he ultimately loses. The enraged father then uses a file the attorney left behind to seek revenge.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: One Fine Day

A missed field trip saddles two single parents (Michelle Pfeiffer, George Clooney) with child-care duties on a day when both are facing career crises. They help each other through the crazy day, and by the time it's over, sparks are flying — the good kind. Mae Whitman, Alex D. Linz, Anna Maria Horsford and Robert Klein also star in this 1996 romantic comedy, whose theme song earned an Oscar nomination.

7:59 p.m. on 6-NBC

Ed

Not seen since a brief appearance in the show's pilot, Ed's (Tom Cavanagh) ex-wife resurfaces — and is now played by guest star Lea Thompson ("Caroline in the City") — in this new episode. She wants Ed's legal help in financing a restaurant. Her presence worries Carol (Julie Bowen), who has other concerns since she's harassed by a man (guest star Jim Gaffigan) who used to admire her from a distance.

8 p.m. on 8-FOX on 25-FOX

Boston Public

An infuriated Guber (Anthony Heald) considers removing the school's drum team from a state competition, after he learns of members' involvement in a hazing. In the new episode "Chapter Seventy-Five," Ronnie (Jeri Ryan) worries about a documentary on her made by students at the school television station. A student (guest star CJ Thomason) shares his father's (guest star Kevin Dunn) punishment when they're handcuffed together for a week.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Third Watch

An anonymous report of someone in trouble draws Bosco and Monroe (Jason Wiles, Nia Long) to an alley — where they encounter an injured man (guest star Warren Blosjo) who keeps changing his story — in the show's 100th episode, "A Call for Help." Cruz (Tia Texada) becomes involved, along with paramedics and other police officers.

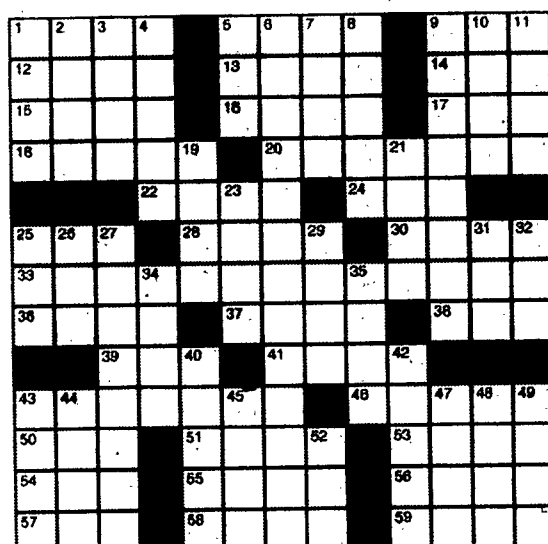

9 p.m. on TBS

Movie: Absolute Power

Clint Eastwood is director and star of this 1997 tale of politics, sex and murder — not necessarily in that order. He plays Luther Whitney, a thief who breaks into a house and inadvertently witnesses some high-level hanky-panky. The lady of the house (Melora Hardin) is the young bride of an elderly millionaire (E.G. Marshall) and mistress of his good friend (Gene Hackman) who happens to be president of the United States.

6 p.m. on TBS

Movie: The Thomas Crown Affair

Pierce Brosnan steps into the shoes of Steve McQueen in this 1999 remake of the 1968 caper classic. In the original, bored millionaire Crown tried bank robbery for a new kick. This time, Crown is still rich, still bored, but his new hobby is art theft — specifically, relieving a museum of a $100 million painting in broad daylight. Rene Russo plays an insurance investigator fighting her attraction to the dashing Crown.

Figure Skating

Michelle Kwan attempts to win her record-setting seventh consecutive U.S. figure skating title — and eighth overall — at Philips Arena in Atlanta. The reigning world champion is coming off a first-place finish at the International Figure Skating Challenge in December, besting her main competition tonight, Sasha Cohen, who placed third. Cohen, though, did beat Kwan for the first time at an invitational last October.

7 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Thunderball

Sean Connery plays James Bond in one of the best 007 screen adventures. Much of the action takes place underwater, which makes sense, since this 1965 outing was filmed in the Bahamas as Bond trails an eye-patched enemy (Adolfo Celi) who has hidden stolen atomic warheads on the ocean floor near Bermuda. Claudine Auger and Luciana Paluzzi also star.

7 p.m. and BRAV

Movie: Apocalypse Now

Director Francis Ford Coppola's classic 1979 Vietnam War drama follows a military man (Martin Sheen) sent into the jungle to eliminate — "with extreme prejudice" — a renegade officer (Marlon Brando) who has established his own dynasty. Based on Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness," the moody film also stars Robert Duvall, Frederic Forrest, Scott Glenn and (briefly) Harrison Ford.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Just Married

Their real-life romance is over, but Ashton Kutcher ("That '70s Show") and Brittany Murphy ("8 Mile") became very much a couple while playing newlyweds in this light but enjoyable 2003 comedy movie. While the bride and groom honeymoon in Europe, her parents — determined to break up the marriage — send her ex-boyfriend (Christian Kane, "Angel") after them, to sway her from her new spouse. David Moscow ("Big") co-stars.

8:45 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Don't Say a Word

Michael Douglas plays a psychiatrist trying to save his kidnapped child in this 2001 melodrama. She's held as bait to force him to get an unstable patient (Brittany Murphy) to disclose a certain number the abductors need. Sean Bean and Oliver Platt also appear, but Murphy steals the show, especially with her melodious delivery of one line: "I'll never tell."

8:59 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

Benson and Stabler (Mariska Hargitay, Christopher Meloni) square off against federal agents while investigating the rape and murder of a DEA operative in "Loss." The feds fear exposure of other agents working under cover against a Colombian drug cartel. Assistant District Attorney Cabot (Stephanie March) risks more than her career as she tries to bring down a narcotics ring.

(Ratings for each film begin with a "star" rating - one star meaning "poor," four meaning "excellent" - followed by the Motion Picture Association of America rating, and then by a family-viewing guide, the key for which appears below.)

STARTING THIS WEEK (New releases):

"OUT OF TIME": Denzel Washington stars as a lawyer in big trouble in this well-paced melodrama from director Carl Franklin. Washington plays a small Florida town's police chief whose dalliance with a married woman (Sanaa Lathan, "Love & Basketball") makes him a suspect when she and her husband (an atypical, notably vicious Dean Cain) are murdered. The law enforcer is investigated by his estranged wife (Eva Mendes), a homicide detective. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentary by Franklin; "making-of" documentary; outtakes; Lathan and Cain screen tests; photo gallery.  (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"UPTOWN GIRLS": Two young women learn more from each other than they bargained on in this mildly amusing teaming of watchable actresses. Brittany Murphy plays a deceased rock star's pampered daughter whose inheritance is shanghaied by an accountant, forcing her to join the work force. She becomes the nanny to a serious-minded youngster (Dakota Fanning, "The Cat in the Hat") who ends up teaching her responsibility - while the free-wheeling nanny educates her new charge in the art of having fun. Heather Locklear, Marley Shelton ("Valentine") and Donald Fai-son ("Scrubs") co-star. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; "making-of" documentaries; deleted scenes; music video; photo gallery.  (PG-13: AS, P)

"UNDERWORLD": Sort of a supernatural "Romeo and Juliet," this horror tale casts Kate Beckinsale ("Serendipity") as a vampire fiercely committed to her brethren's battle against werewolves - until she falls for a human (Scott Speedman, "Felicity") who has a link to the enemy. The vampires' leader (Shane Brolly) wants to possess her heart, upping the stakes in a war that could have devastating implications for the entire world. Bill Nighy ("Love Actually") co-stars. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; audio commentaries by director Len Wiseman, cast and crew members, and screenwriter Danny McBride; "making-of" documentaries; storyboard-to-screen comparison.  (R: AS, P, GV)

"A CHARLIE BROWN VALENTINE": As "Peanuts" fans know, Charlie Brown has been pining for the little red-haired girl; Lucy has been trying to raise Schroeder's head from that Beethoven sheet music; and Sally has tried every trick in the book to distract Linus from his security blanket, philosophical musings and Great Pumpkin fixation. This classic, animated television special - based on Charles M. Schulz's comic strip - finds the popular characters still immersed in their childhood romantic dilemmas. DVD extras: the animated programs "There's No Time for Love, Charlie Brown" and "Someday You'll Find Her, Charlie Brown."  (Not rated)

"CHEERS: THE COMPLETE SECOND SEASON": The comedic misadventures of the gang at the Boston bar "where everybody knows your name" continue in this four-DVD set. It marks something of a triumph for the show, whose initially low ratings made it uncertain that the NBC sitcom would have a second year. The tales deepen the complications in the relationship between bar owner Sam and waitress Diane (Ted Danson, Shelley Long), as Coach and Carla (Nicholas Colasanto, Rhea Perlman) still meet the needs of regular customers Norm and Cliff (George Wendt, John Ratzenberger). DVD extras: "making-of" documentaries; outtakes.  (Not rated: AS, P)

"NOVA: WHO KILLED THE RED BARON?": Manfred von Richthofen executed many daring aerial attacks on enemy pilots in the name of Germany, but his reign in the skies ended suddenly - and, for a long time afterward, inexplicably - on April 21, 1918. This recent episode of the long-running PBS science series investigates what happened to him, using newly found documents that counter the long-held belief for his cause of death. The program includes re-creations of World War I dogfights.  (Not rated: V)

COMING SOON (Upcoming releases):

"FREDDY VS. JASON" (Jan. 13): Two icons of screen terror go up against each other in this horror offering that features singer Kelly Rowland and Jason Ritter. (R: AS, P, GV)

"JOHNNY ENGLISH" (Jan. 13): Rowan Atkinson ("Mr. Bean") stars as a British spy who isn't necessarily at the top of the pecking order, but he gets the job done. (PG-13: AS, P, V)

"ONCE UPON A TIME IN MEXICO" (Jan. 20): Antonio Banderas again stars as a desperado in the conclusion of the trilogy that began with "El Mariachi." Salma Hayek and Johnny Depp co-star. (R: AS, P, GV)

Sunday's the day for NASA and 'Nova' on PBS

By Kate O'Hare
© Zap2it

"I think the credibility of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory is at stake," scientist Steve Squyres says in "MARS Dead or Alive," an episode of PBS' "Nova," premiering Sunday, Jan. 4. "I think the credibility of NASA's Mars program is at stake. A hell of a lot of science is at stake. The last 10 or 15 years of my career is at stake, from a purely personal perspective."

The installment chronicles the monumental efforts that went into the latest attempt to land robotic spacecraft on the red planet.

After two spectacular and controversial failures in 1999, resulting in the losses of both the Mars Climate Orbiter and the Mars Polar Lander, Jet Propulsion Laboratory, based in Pasadena, Calif., and NASA are trying to recapture the momentum begun by the successful 1997 landing of the Mars Pathfinder mission and the worldwide telecasts of images of and from the little rover called Sojourner.

Last summer, Sojourner's maxi-sized descendants, Spirit and Opportunity, launched a month apart on dual missions that could make or break the future of robotic space exploration. At press time, there were rumblings that President Bush was poised to declare a new moon mission, perhaps creating a lunar base for human exploration of Mars.

But if disaster befalls one or both of the new rovers, the entire U.S. space program will be shaken at its foundation, with no way to predict what happens next.

Not that it was any cakewalk getting to the launch, as the "Nova" episode - written, produced and directed by Mark Davis for Boston PBS station WGBH - painfully illustrates. From inception to launch, MER (Mars Exploration Rover) overcame one engineering and science challenge after another.

"Mark and his crew were present for some of the low points in the engineering development," says Adam Steltzner, the lead mechanical engineer for the entry, descent and landing phases. "There were moments when I wished that it would never have been preserved for all time."

The Sunday broadcast should conclude with a live update on Spirit's landing (scheduled for Jan. 3), and a repeat airing in the regular Tuesday "Nova" slot should end with further updates.

Perhaps illustrating MER's importance, in mid-November, JPL threw open its doors to a press junket for

"MARS Dead or Alive," sponsored by worldwide distributor National Geographic International.

On hand were all the mission's major players, including principal scientific investigator Squyres, a Cornell astronomer with an evangelical enthusiasm for his job, and author, scientist and futurist Gentry Lee, whose involvement in the search for life on Mars stretches back to Viking in the mid-'70s.

Tucked in the foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains, JPL's sprawling grounds look, at various times, like a college campus, a military base or a movie studio. Buildings spanning 60 years are jumbled along winding, tree-shaded roads.

A newer building houses the Space Flight Operations Facility for the rovers, a sleek room done in violet, gray and white, with rows of flat-panel computer workstations and pull-down projection screens.

Nearby is a freshly painted conference room where project managers gather to assess the day's data - helped by giant, three-dimensional displays - and plan the next day's mission.

From the shock of the new to the shock of the not-so-new, a cramped 1940s building houses a compact lab for robot design, complete with rock-studded inclines and two test "sandboxes" that simulate Martian landscapes.

More impressive is the large-scale "sandbox," in a vaulted room with a glassed-in viewing gallery. On the red sand, surrounded by rocks and camouflage netting, sits a test version of the new rovers. At once sturdy and spindly, the six-wheeled vehicle resembles an unlikely marriage of a Tonka truck and a bug, with its solar panels spread out like dragonfly wings, and a tall mast topped by high-resolution cameras.

All this must fold down into a capsule no bigger than the one that carried Sojourner. As with Pathfinder, the landing procedure brings the craft through the atmosphere, then brakes it with both a parachute (Steltzner's particular nemesis) and rocket thrusters. Giant air bags then inflate around the capsule, which is dropped for a touchdown that would be spectacularly silly if it weren't so serious, with the air bags bouncing willy-nilly along the surface.

With any luck, after avoiding burning up, crashing, deflating or impaling itself on a sharp rock, the rover comes to rest, the air bags deflate and the craft begins the slow process of unfolding itself, calling home and rolling off to begin its mission.

As a single woman, I didn't think coupons would be helpful, but I found out that a few minutes of clipping each weekend goes a long way. I pick up on non-perishable foods and I always find something on my list! I have decided to save for a VCR player. The money I save each week with coupons is going towards my special purchase. I look forward to clipping coupons each week and saving money!
